Victorian Corbel Stone Mantel

Limestone and Antique white marble period mantels

Stone has been a traditional mantel material since medieval times and marble has been used for over 300 years.

Each stone mantel is unique with naturally occurring veining, subtle tonal differences and even small fossils may be found in the limestone.

The Victorian Corbel mantel is based on an authentic Victorian design. Versions are available made from either limestone or antique white marble, with hand-finished craftsmanship providing exceptional elegance.
